Anchor: The "Live Well, Take Action: Ambassador Program for East Asian Youth," jointly organized by Chinese Canadian National Council Toronto Chapter and ALPHA Education, held its Student Celebration last night (May 26th, 2022). Dozens of East Asian students from York Region became strong advocates for social justice through project design and community practices.

Charmaine Li: Some of the topics might be very heavy, and it might be very personal. However, it is also because we discussed about such diverse topics, that we can learn more about issues from people other than ourselves. I hope that more people will be aware of these issues and create social change.

Anchor: Students addressed social stereotypes and discrimination, and promoted social justice through different forms of projects, including science and art, etc.
